Agenda

Section 1: The Irresistible Pitch

Being able to develop and present an "irresistible pitch" to donor organisations is a key requirement of all NGOs which are dependent on donor funds to fulfil their mission.

This course is designed to assist executives to develop a presentation document and then present it in a manner which has the best chance of success.

Section 2: Effective Project management

This course is designed to take participants through all the elements of the theory and practice of effective project management. It is designed to improve project management skills and knowledge for all people responsible for running projects. The course focuses upon the technical and behavioral skills required for projects to consistently meet the project objectives while observing the triple constraints of time, cost and resources. The course uses a non-technical, commercially based case study to ensure active application of learning outcomes across a potentially diverse audience. The achievement of the learning outcomes is facilitated by interactive sessions throughout the course.

Section 3: Strategic Planning for Successful Outcomes

This course is designed to enable participants to work on the development of their own strategic plan in a group session with people from a variety of organizations.

We will have a session on ‘Vision, Mission and Ambition’ which sets the foundation of the plan.

We then take participants through the “Business Model Canvas” methodology which analyses how the segments of the NGOs work and their inter-relationships: this information sets the scene for translating the Vision, Mission and Ambition statements into reality.

Each participant group will work on their own business plan.
